Essen, Jan. 22.—German mines throughout the Ruhr today carried out their strike threat.

Mines that are supplying the greater part of German fuel were idle. Grimy men lounged about the pit with folded arms. They appeared at the shaft head at the usual hour this morning but no work was done. French troops with bayoneted rifles were at some of the mines. No work was done at any of the mines, however, the men unanimously joining in the passive resistance which caused the arrest and imprisonment of German mine officials. The Ruhr railroad men are also striking.

A meeting was called here to decide whether the tie-up of the mines throughout the Ruhr should be continued.

Paris, Jan. 22.—Marshall Foch and the French Cabinet today decided upon new measures "of a military and economic character' to meet the strike of German miners and railroad workers.

At the same time the French Commander at Essen released Herr Ahrens, State Mine Director, whose return was hailed tumultously by striking miners.

Troops were withdrawn from the vicinity of the State Mines and from the Reichsbank at Essen and the French pledged themselves to maintain only a small watch at railroad stations, this condition causing German railroad workers at South Dortmund to return to work.

This preliminary concession was not considered indicative of the French attitude in general, it is understood severe measures are planned

"We are not alone. Our friends, the Belgians, are with us," Premier Poincare told the Chamber of Deputies. This picture from the Ruhr district, shows a group of Belgian infantry men on their arrival in Essen.

GIRL ANARCHIST SHOOTS EDITOR OF PARIS NEWSPAPER

Paris, Jan. 22.—Marius Plateau, editor of the Action Francaise, was shot to death in his editorial offices here this afternoon by Germaine Berton, well-known girl anarchist.

Miss Berton then attempted suicide and wounded herself.

Motive for the shooting has not been ascertained.

REINSCH, FORMER AMBASSADOR TO CHINA, VERY ILL

New York, Jan. 22.—Dr. Paul Reinsch, former United States minister to China, is critically ill at Shanghai, China and is not expected to live, according to a cable received today by Mrs. Reinsch.

He is suffering from a tumor on the brain and an operation will be performed by a surgeon of the Rockefeller Institute in China.

FRISCO FEELS EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS OF VARYING INTENSITY AT 1 A. M. TODAY

San Francisco, Jan. 22.—An earthquake shock, varying in intensity in different localities, shook the earth shortly after 1:00 a. m., according to reports.

It was felt lightly in San Francisco at 1:07 a. m. It seemed to consist of three shocks.

Washington, Jan. 22.—A very severe earthquake shock was recorded by the seismograph of Georgetown University here early today.

Professor Tonors, in charge of the instrument, said the shock, which was of unusually long duration, appeared to be 2,600 miles from Washington.

The tremors were first noticed at 3:55 o'clock this morning and continued until 5:26. The most severe part of the disturbance was recorded at 4:10.

MAN, WOMAN AND THREE CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH IN HOTEL FIRE AT HOMESTEAD, PA.; PROPRIETOR DIES

Homestead, Pa., Jan. 22.—Five persons burned to death today in an early morning fire which detroyed a small hotel owned by Thomas W. Davies on Dickson street.

The dead are Mrs. John Winnie, aged forty-five and her three children, David and Winifred, twins, aged six, and Catherine, aged thirteen.

The fire started in the kitchen of the three story frame hotel building and rapidly spread its way to the twenty bedrooms. Ten persons were forced to flee in their night clothing.

The bodies of Mrs. Winnie and her children were found huddled together on the thrid floor apartment, their escape having been cut off by the dense smoke and flames coming from the ground floor. John Winnie the husband tried in vain to rescue his wife and children but was forced back each time by tongues of flames darting from the doors and windows.

The Chief of the Homestead Fire Department Jos. Bryce, was severely burned on the head and hands in rescuing Davies. Davies died later in the Homestead Hospital.

COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL HOLD OPEN FORUM

The regular meeting of the Commercial Club will be on slightly different lines this evening. Recognizing that this city has a traffic problem that it must solve in the very near future the members have been giving a great deal of study to this topic. This evening it is planned that L. A. McDowell will give a talk on the subject after which the topic will be thrown open to discussion and be thoroughly threshed out.

Of course, there will be some good entertainment too.

F. K. Knarr of DuBois, District Agent of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of Marble, Pa., transacted business in town on Saturday.

YEAR 1923 STARTS OFF WITH FIGURES ON PRODUCTION BIG

Harrisburg, Pa. Jan. 22 (U. P.) Increased production in every line of industry in Pennsylvania since the beginning of the year was announced by the Department of Labor and Industry here today in a report based on a survey from the State Employment offices.

The following conditions were reported in certain important industries:

Steel industry in some quarters has attained nearly 90% production.

Railroads operating at capacity. The situation in the anthracite district improved by arrival of sufficient cars to handle coal mined.

Building boom surpasses record for 1922 throughout the State.

Agricultural situation marked by early requests for farm hands.

Coal mines throughout State working at capacity, with exception of Johnstown district, where car shortage has developed.

LEGISLATURE CONVENES AT NINE O'CLOCK THIS EVENING; PINCHOT TO GIVE IT HIS MESSAGE TOMORROW OR WEDNESDAY

Harrisburg, Jan. 22.—The Legislature was ready today to settle down to the real business of the 1923 session.

With the organization and committee arrangements meeting out of the way the General Assembly convenes at nine o'clock.

Tomorrow or Wednesday, Governor Pinchot is scheduled to come before the Legislature with a message in person and to present the budget, the first ever submitted to a Pennsylvania Legislature.

It was understood the new budget will provide for the expenditure of $90,000,000, or $28,000,000 less than the appropriation of 1921.

FORD CAR IS DRIVEN HEAD-ON INTO TEAM SATURDAY EVENING

A Ford driven by a man named Gill of Glen Richey, collided with a team being driven by Burton Graham, of "The Ridges," on South Second street in front of the residence of L. C. Norris Saturday evening about 7:30 o'clock.

Graham had been shopping about town and being delayed at the blacksmith shop was traveling home without a light on his sled. Gill was driving into town and when he approached the place where the accident occurred the lights of a car coming toward him caused him to swing over and being unable to see the team by reason of the rain on his windshield ran right into the lead horse, knocking the animal back onto the sled, cutting the horse's leg badly and otherwise bruising and skinning it up.

The injured horse was taken in charge by Dr. Winter and fixed up so that Mr. Graham was able to drive it home Sunday.

BAND CONCERT WAS ENJOYABLE

The free concert given by the Clearfield Italian Band at the Driggs Theatre Sunday afternoon was very well attended, despite the unfavorable weather.

The highly entertaining program was very much enjoyed by the audience and the band was the recipient of much deserved applause.

The Clearfield Italian Band is progressing finely under the direction of Prof. Anselmo and is fast developing into a first class musical organization.

Dean Watts Presided At Conservation Meet In Harrisburg Today

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 22 (U. P.)—The Pennsylvania Conservation Council met here today to discuss a general conservation program to be recommended to the Legislature.

Governor Pinchot was scheduled to address the meeting. Dean R. L. Watts, of Pennsylvania State College presided. The Council took up conservation questions concerning forestry, game, fish, wild flowers and other wild life.

T. Lansing Snyder, Well Known Citizen, Died Yesterday Noon

Thomas Lansing Snyder, a resident of Clearfield for the past twenty years, died at his home corner Market and Front streets, about 12 o'clock Sunday, Jan. 21, 1923, after an illness of more than one year's duration, as the result of a stroke of paralysis, aged 62 years.

The deceased was the son of the late Thomas L. and Martha Snyder and was born and raised at Kylertown. At the death of his father he took over the management of the estate and proved to be highly successful business man.

About twenty years ago he moved his family to Clearfield where he has since resided. He possessed a wide acquaintance throughout the country and enjoyed the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

He is survived by his widow and one son, T. Lansing, Jr. Two sisters Mrs L. M Garrett and Mrs E. Brenner both of Philadelphia, also survive him.

The funeral will be held from his late home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in Hillcrest cemetery.

Naval Appropriation Bill Is Signed By President Harding

Washington, Jan. 22.—The naval appropriation bill, carrying the Congressional suggestion that another international conference should be called to limit submarines, aircraft and auxiliary ships was signed by President Harding in his room at the White House. The measure carries appropriations of about $295,000,000.

ITALIAN MOTHERS WANT TO COOK "AMERICAN WAY"

The home economics extension work of the Pennsylvania State College is carried to every corner of the state by a corps of trained workers. One of the workers, Miss Helen K. Rogers, recently reported to college officials that a group of Italian mothers at Conshohocken are receiving instructions, at their own request, in how to cook in the "American way." The class there is considered to be a great success and every session is well attended.

SUNDAY FIRE REVEALED A SITUATION WHICH IS A DISGRACE TO THE CITY

Barn On Rear of Market Street Lot Is Hiding Place of Both Men and Women Inebriates.

TWO ARE RESCUED

The fire alarm was sounded about 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon for a fire in District No. 13 and when the firemen arrived at the corner of Fourth and Market streets, the central point in the district, they found dense smoke issuing from the barn on the rear of the lot at that corner.

The fire was located in a couple of horse blankets which had been placed on the floor for bedding. The application of chemicals from a hand tank by the firemen soon put an end to the fire.

The barn is located on the alley known to its habitues or the lower strata of the social crust as "Little Broadway," is quite a busy place on Saturday nights generally and as the barn and wagon shed attached are easy of access they are said to be the hanging out place of numerous drinking parties. The usual quota was about last Saturday night, the weather making such quarters necessary.

Accordingly there was a real seat torment when the firemen arrived several rummies darting out and making their way unsteadily from that direction. While putting the chemical on the fire, a Lawrence township woman in an advanced stage of intoxication was discovered in the barn and she was led out to a place of safety and falling into the hands of Chief of Police McMullen was placed in the lockup to sleep off her jag.

After the excitement of the fire had been pretty well dissipated a "Paul Pry" nosed about and looking into a delivery wagon in the wagon shed saw a man who had been overcome with the heat from the moonshine he had been punishing and the poor devil was hauled out and by that time the police had returned to the scene and this drunk was also placed in the calaboose. Each lodger paid $7.00 into the borough treasury for their accommodations.

CHERRY TREE'S NEW BANK OPENS UNDER FINE AUSPICES

The Farmers and Merchants Bank of Cherry Tree opened Monday, Jan. 15th, 192 3, under the most favorable circumstances. The total resources for the first day were $216,737.04. Favors were given to all the visitors.

The first deposit was made by Helen Isabel Hanna, little daughter of the cashier.

A great deal of interest has been manifested in the enterprise. Stock has been over subscribed by 200 share holders.

This speaks well for the confidence reposed in the promoters, who are thus bringing the farming community in closer touch with the bankers and both of these with the merchants of the town.

The directors are composed of the following well known citizens.

J. D Ake. R. A. Butler, R. M. McCormick, Price Davis, C. A. Conner, E. C. Ake, R. H. Dunlap, J. C. Mahaffey, F. B. Camp, Dr. H. F. Garman.

With such a representative board the success of the bank is assured.

Mr. H. C. Hanna, who assumes the office of Cashier, comes highly recommended from the banking circles of McKeesport and vicinity. He possesses a pleasing personality and with his thorough knowledge of banking will prove a valuable asset to the bank. Mr. Hanna leaves McKeesport with the best wishes of his many friends for his future success.

The officer are:

J. D. Ake. President; R. A. Butler, First Vice President; R. M. McCormick, Second Vice Pres.; H. C. Hanna Cashier; F. L. Zeigler, Asst. Cashier and P. W. Cramer, Teller.

Pick Up Intoxicated, Half Clad Woman With Baby On The Woodland Road

A half clad Slavish woman with a little year-old baby in the same condition as to clothing was picked up on the Woodland road, near the Mt. Union row this side of Barrett Saturday night last and brought to the Clearfield hospital.

The woman is said to have been under the influence of liquor, in fact was so full she fell headlong when she got out of the car at the hospital and had to be helped into the building.

The woman alleged she had been driven from her home and arrangements were made to take care of her at the County Home till her domestic troubles could be settled.

WOMAN DISTILLER OF GLEN RICHEY BROUGHT TO JAIL

The latest Clearfield county moonshiner to have her house of pints and quarts fall about her head is Mrs. Adam Madachik, of Glen Richey. It is alleged by neighbors that Mrs. Madachik has long been polluting that community with rye juice from her still. So notorious did it become that complaint was made to the county authorities and Saturday last Sheriff Tom Lowell went to the Madachik home, placed the woman under arrest, confiscated her still, then a "going concern," together with a gallon of moonshine for evidence and brought the entire "ball of wax" to the county jail.

DRASTIC CHANGES IN CRIMINAL CODE OF STATE URGED

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 20. (U. P.) —Drastic changes in the criminal code of Pennsylvania, recommended by a commission appointed to revise the code, will be introduced in the legislature this week. The proposed code will be introduced in the Senate by Senator Fletcher W. Sturdevant and in the House by Representative Benjamin Ludlow.

Important recommendations by the committee are:—

1. The abolition of solitary confinement.

2. Requiring appeal from convictions within 30 days instead of six months as is now allowed.

3. Simplication of verbiage in bills and misdemeanors and classification of several forms of larceny under the one head of stealing.

The new code also provides for use of plain simple English, readily understandable in bills of indictments. This will reduce the length of the majority of manuscripts to a few liens, instead of many pages of technicalities.

Another provision is for a rearrangement of the statutes providing punishment for larceny and related crimes, making all these offenses felonies and increases the maximum punishment from three to five years.

HEAVEN HOLDS NO CHARM IF WIFIE'S GOING THERE

North Abington, Mass., Jan. 19.—My! How Frank H. McKee, of this town, must love his wife.

"I would rather go to hell alone than to go to heaven with the woman now suing me for divorce," he declared in answer to his wife's charges that he once turned on the gas so that he might go hand in hand to heaven. Mrs. McKeen is suing her husband for a divorce.

Legion Supports France and Puts Stamp of Approval On the Mer Rouge Investigation

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22.—The action of France in occupying certain territory in the Ruhr valley was given a stamp of approval by the national executive committee of the American Legion at its recent meeting in Indianapolis attended by representatives from every state.

The committee also adopted resolutions approving the action of the authorities of the state of Louisiana in their endeavors to enforce law and order and condemned the murder of an ex-service man by a "lawless band." Another resolution was adopted urging the government of the United States to lend its aid to abate the world crisis and assist in the establishment of peace.

French occupation of the Ruhr was deemed necessary by the Legion heads. The resolution charged that the Germans had attempted to wreck the financial system of their country for the purpose of avoiding payment and "by evasion and trickery sought to deprive France of the awards made by the peace conference." The committee voted to send copies of the resolution to President Harding, the Congress and the French ambassador to the United States.

The resolution on the Mer Rouge investigation was short but to the point. It follows: "Be it resolved, That this committee approve of the action of the authorities of the state of Louisiana in their endeavors to enforce law and order and condemn the foul murder of one of our comrades by a lawless band, and that we await with scrutiny the bringing to the bar of justice the perpetrator of this crime."

When the question of the Legion's attitude toward organized labor was considered, Alvin Owsley, national commander, declared the Legion owed no allegiance to either labor or capital. He said that the ex-service man had the right to decide for himself whether or not he desired to affiliate with organized labor and should be moved solely by the dictates of his own conscience.

Commander Owsley was authorized to raise an endowment fund of $100,000 from Legion posts to defray expenses incidental to the decoration of 32,000 graves of American soldiers and sailors in European countries. Committees were also authorized to consider the establishment of an orphan's home for children of ex-service men and the examination of all textbooks in the schools of the country to discover any alleged un-American contents.

FORMER BRADFORD TOWNSHIP RESIDENT DIES

Word was received this morning by relatives that Waring McDowell of Coatesville died early this morning after a lengthy illness of heart disease. Mr. McDowell was a native of Bradford township and moved to the vicinity of Coatesville several years ago where he was engaged in farming.

The body of Mr. McDowell will be brought here for burial and the funeral will be held from the home of his sister, Mrs. J. M. Quigley on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock.

WON CONTEST FIRST YEAR HE SPRAYED POTATOES

Two years ago R. E. Briggs, a Luzerne county farmer, did not believe in the principles of spraying potatoes and the use of disease-free seed as advocated by the agricultural extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. Then his neighbors began to spray their spuds and Mr. Briggs watched the results with great interest. He was won over to the idea when his neighbors dug their potatoes showing almost a double yield. o last spring he bought the best kind of seed available, sprayed through the season and had such good results that he entered the county farm products show and won the acre potato yield contest. He had raised 417.6 bushels of potatoes per acre and had no difficulty in winning the contest with this mark.

1,950 COAL MINERS KILLED IN MINES DURING YEAR 1922

Washington, Jan. 22.—Fatal accidents in coal mines, in the face of a five months shut down, due to the miners strike in the summer and the added precautions taken to prevent accidents, mounted to a total of 1,950 in 1922, only twenty-three less than the previous year, the bureau of mines announced today.

The actual number of accidents for 1922 was only slightly smaller, but when compared in relation to the number of millions of tons of coal produced, the total reaches a greater percentage. "Major" accidents, where five or more miners are killed, increased from 5 to 13, and the death total in these from 34 to 261, the figures showed.

George S. Rice, chief mining engineer of the bureau of mines, said that "suggestions as to the proper precautions made by the bureau and followed by the mine owners, seem not to abate the number of accidents," due to carelessness on the part of miners.

"Due to the natural inclinations of the miners, who are paid on a piece basis, to make as much as possible and waste as little time as possible in placing props under overhead obstructions, or in taking them out altogether, very little improvement has been shown in the records for the past several years in the number of accidents from this cause. The past year showed 786 deaths from falling rocks and coal."

Powder, electricity and haulage accidents showed a "gratifying reduction" in the past year, Rice stated. Only 1,091 deaths per million tons mined were caused from these three classes of accidents during the year.

Preferred, Earache.

Mrs. B. writes that her little boy remarked that he'd much rather have the earache than the toothache, because he didn't have to have his ear pulled out.

SHORT FARM COURSE STARTS AT PENN STATE

The eight week's course in agriculture at the Pennsylvania State College started last week with an enrollment of more than 120 men and boys and four women. Fifty have entered the course in dairy production, the most popular of the short courses. Animal production, general farming and horticultural courses are also very popular with the short course students. This year's enrollment is on a par with that of previous years, for the number that can be admitted is limited by the college due to lack of living and teaching facilities.

WILL HELP RUN GOVERNMENT

Brig. Gen. John R. McQuigg, Ohio, Organizer, Predicts Reform Through Ex-Service Men.

"There is an avalanche coming down on government before long when the service men get properly organized. The government will be run as it has not been run in the past, and is being run now."

Brig. Gen. J. R. McQuigg.

The above statement was made by Brig. Gen. John R. McQuigg, veteran organizer, campaigner and silver-tongued orator of the American Legion in accepting his recent unanimous election as chairman of the Cuyahoga County (O.) Council of the Legion which includes all Cleveland Legionnaires.

Entrance of ex-service men into the active affairs of government will purify American politics and will inject a new note of Americanism into this country's affairs, according to General McQuigg, although the Legion, as an organization, will never participate in partisan politics.

General McQuigg is serving his third term as Legion national executive committeeman from Ohio, and is a past commander of the Ohio department. At the recent national convention in New Orleans he was chosen a three-year member of the national finance committee. He was chairman of the very important resolutions committee at the convention, and presented the resolution on adjusted compensation to the convention. He played an active role in the compensation fight in congress.

A brigadier general of the Ohio National Guard, Mr. McQuigg is president of the Windemere Savings and Loan company of Cleveland, and is a former mayor of East Cleveland. He has always been active in civic and political affairs and has been a practicing attorney since 1890.

General McQuigg is a veteran of both the Spanish and World wars. In the recent war he commanded the One Hundred and Twelfth engineers in the Thirty-seventh division at Camp Sheridan overseas.

How To Keep Your Baby Well

A Weekly Talk To Mothers Issued Through The Babies' Prophylactic Clinic, Henry Phipps Institution, 7th and Lombard Streets.

YOUR CHILD'S WILL

Every child iss more or less wilful. In other words, "he wants what he wants when he wants it." Sometime what he wants is not good for him. Then do not give into him. This may often requires strong will-power on your part, but the earlier in your child's life that you begin to exert your will power over his, the easier will it be for you to control him.

Let him recognize that your will is founded not on obstinate opposition to his wishes, but on what is best for him. He will soon come to rely on your judgment.

Do not bring up your child on a series of "Thou Shalt not's." Preventing him from doing things, will not develop his will power. It is correctly and intelligently guiding him in the things he DOES that counts.

If Johnie wants to eat candies and cakes between meals, and you know they will spoil his appetite for more nutritious foods, use your willpower. Do not let him eat them; force him to obey your will. But if Mary wants to go outdoors, and you do not want her to go simply because you prefer to stay in the house, you are letting your will be governed by your own desire rather than by Mary's needs.

As your child gets older, his will should be developed. Otherwise he will grow up into the kind of a person that can never learn to think and act for himself.

This does not mean, though, that his will should dominate yours. If you say something and you know you are right, stick to it. Be firm. Your child will respect you more if he knows that when you say a thing you mean it.

Do not, however, confuse stubbornness and contrariness and will. Because your child is stubborn, it does not necessarily mean that he has great will power. As a matter of fact stubborness is often a sign of weakness, while will power is a sign of strenght.

Children, as you know, are like little monkeys—they imitate. Only too often a fit of tantrums, which is really not will, is but an imitation of your own tantrums which you allow your child to see. He can just as easily learn to imitate kindliness and an even disposition. Therefore, learn first to control yourself. Your child will readily follow your example.

Patrick Henry's Education.

Patrick Henry failed in various enterprises before he made an attempt at law. He read for only six weeks before he applied for his license. The license was granted him on condition that he study further before practicing. He first became famous thru his brilliant speech in the Parsons case.

Large Mouth Stood Good Sign.

"She was simple enough to be somewhat apologetic about the largeness of her mouth, unaware that a man of experience flees from a small, rosebud mouth as from the devil, and that a large mouth is the certain sign of good will and understanding in a woman." "She went to the Wallace collection and saw how millionaires lived in the 70s and how the unchaste and lovely ladies were dressed for whom entire populations were sacrificed in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries. Thence to a cinema near the Marble arch, and saw how virtue infallibly wins after all."—From "Lillian," by Arnold Bennett.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Many Americans unable, financially, to take the Cuban and South American cruises so extensively advertised these days, are hiking across the border into Canada. Here is the Yankee slogan when they get across the line:—

Sing a song of Montreal,
A barrel full of rye;
Four and twenty Yankees
Feeling mighty dry;
When the barrel was opened
They all began to sing:
"Oh, to hell with Mr. Volstead
And God save the King!"

Who was the first man to be buried under the shadow of the Cross in America? He was not a Spaniard, nor was he of Anglo-Saxon stock. His name was Thorwald, one of the sons of Eric the Red of Greenland, whose friend, Biarne Bardson, when driven out of his course on a voyage from Iceland, discovered North America. This was in the late summer of the year 986.

Thorwald, fired by his friend's discovery, and the voyage in 1000 to Vinland by his brother, Leif, reached America in the autumn of 1002, and passed the winter at Leifsbudir or Leif's-booths, which was situated at Mount Hope's Bay. He and his Norsemen remained in Vinland, that has been identified with Massachusetts and Rhode Island, till the summer of 1004. Then Thorwald, leaving a party at Leifsbudir, set sail in his long-ship with her square, woolen sail and oarsmen. They passed Kialarnes, or Keelcape, which is Cape Cod, and kept on until they came to a headland overgrown with wood.

Thorwald was so pleased with this spot that he told his comrades he would like well to have his settlement here. As the men were returning to their vessel they noticed three hillocks on the sandy beach, which they found to be three canoes, and under each, three natives. A fight ensued. Eight of the natives were killed; the ninth escaped with his canoe. Shortly afterwards a large band of aborigines rushed upon the Norsemen from the interior. Thorwald and his men retreated to their ship, but not till he had received a wound under the arm from an arrow.

Finding the wound to be mortal he said to his men: "Get you about your departure as soon as possible, but me ye shall bring to the headland where I thought it good to dwell. Mayhap, it was a prophetic word that fell from my mouth about my abiding there for a season. There shall ye bury me, and there place a cross at my head and also at my feet, and call the place Krossanes (Crossness) in all time coming."

This his men did, placing a cross at his head and his feet, for already the Christian teachers among the Norse had wrought good work; and in many parts the worship of Thor and Odin was cast down. Thorwald and his men were, indeed, worshippers of the "White Christ." After burying Thorwald, the Norsemen rejoined their companions at Leifsbudir, and sailed in the spring of 1005 for Greenland. But, at Krossanes, which has been identified as Gurnet Point, lay the first Christian grave which had been made in all America.

Late in the Eighteenth Century, a Norse cemetery was found on Rainford Island in the Bay of Boston. Here, it has been discovered, were buried at later dates the dead of the many Norse expeditions from Greenland to North America. Between 986 and 1347, the last date given in history to a voyage from Greenland to America, there were frequent visits by these Vikings to Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

Circulating libraries were instituted in the Middle Ages—still sometimes called the Dark Ages by those who are in the dark about them. They date from the fourteenth century, when the University of Paris, as a help to the students attending it, had a law enacted which compelled all booksellers to keep books to lend out on hire; and this example was imitated at Toulouse, Bologna, Vienna, and Oxford. Complete catalogues of books were exposed for the public, with the prices of hiring affixed, and the students had a right to make copies of them.

Radium.

The light of radium burns without replenishment for two thousand years, and during that period less than 50 per cent will have decayed. Since it is shooting off small particles, what becomes of radium after its fire has died out? This magic stone of the scientists changes from the most costly metal into the basest—it becomes lead!

Where United States Leads.

The United States produces annually about 70 per cent of the world's corn, 60 per cent of its cotton and 50 per cent of its tobacco.

Wonderful Eating Capacity.

Two Italians once had a measuring contest, in which the winner stowed away 2,100 yards of macaroni, being a quarter of a mile ahead of his rival, who had to confess with reluctance that he could eat no more.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

Within two squares of the temple of justice, the borough building, the centre of the city and under the very shadow of church steeples from whence came the peal of bells calling the faithful to worship, a funnel of smoke issuing from an old barn yesterday revealed a condition that would do credit to the back alleys of a great city.

It has long been public knowledge that the alley between Market and Locust Streets and leading from Third to Fourth Streets was the trysting place of the bootlegger and the open air drinking place of the moonshine addict, but it was hardly believeable that a sudden breaking out of fire in the vicinity would send the convivial spirits scampering to cover.

It was even worse than that. A woman was in there, dead drunk at the hour of noon on Sunday. There was also a man who had crawled into the bed of a delivery wagon to sleep off his jag. Neither knew the other was there, but among the secrets of the Order of Neck Lubricators imparted to initiates was one which not only told the poor fish where to get liquor, but where he could drink it in safety

Last night an old frame hotel building at Homestead, Pa., burned to the ground, killing five people, all of whom had their senses and their physical power, yet they were burned to death

We might have had a greater and more disgraceful catastrophe to write about today had the occupants of the old barn not been discovered and rescued before the flames reached them.

The Sunday papers carried the following news dispatch under a Millersburg, Ohio, date line —

"The grand jury, after its annual investigation of the Holmes county jail, reported as follows: "'Holmes county's jail is easily more sanitary than the majority of hotels and should be satisfactory to the most exacting'

"Sheriff J. A. Stevens, flushed with pride, addressed the jury as follows:

"'Thanks, gentlemen I hereby offer a standing reward of $5 for every bug of any description found in the jail.'"

What a cinch, my countrymen were the Clearfield County Commissioners, who have charge of our jail, to make such a crack here in Clearfield. Think of it friends, $5 per bed bug. Croesus, with all his fabled riches, would go broke the first hour of the first day he worked at the paying end of that game, while a $65,000 Clearfield county temporary loan wouldn't last longer than it took the ink to dry on the signatures of the County Commissioners negotiating it.

In this connection it might be well to add that while discussing the recent upheaval down at the jail due to the activities of the "clean up squad," Captain Watson of the Salvation Army, who visited the jail Saturday, said there has been quite a bit of housecleaning indulged in the past couple of days but the surface had only been scratched thus far Captain Watson said —

"I was down at the jail today, as is my weekly custom and in talking with one of the prisoners the matter of the clean up came up Inviting me into his cell the fellow said 'Here, Cap, look here' With that the prisoner took a big chunk of newspaper and inserting it between the wash boards of the wall of the cell [illegible] and with a match touched the paper and flames leaped high up the wall [illegible] directions up to the ceiling Although could not exactly state that he [illegible] hundred to the little pests —some of them no very little— at one time'

Questioning the Captain stated that at the present time the grand exodus of Thursday and Friday has

STATE COLLEGE A STATE INSTITUTION SAYS PRESIDENT

The many friends of the Pennsylvania State College have been greatly concerned with some of the statements in the recent report of Dr Harlan Upergraff of the University of Pennsylvania, to the citizens' committee on the finances of Pennsylvania, to the citizen's committee on the finances of Pennsylvania appointed by Governor-elect Pinchot. The report declares State College to be not an entirely state institution and gives the impression that tuition is charged students there. In order to clear Penn State's position President John M. Thomas has issued the following statement:

"The Pennsylvania State College is already a purely state institution It is classed as a state institution by the United States Bureau of Education, and is the only institution in Pennsylvania so designated Two thirds of the trustees are state officers, appointees of the Governor, and persons elected by public societies The property of the college is owned by the commonwealth [illegible] as is evidenced by the fact that [illegible] now using [illegible] building As to the [illegible] college [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] policy of the college [illegible] respect Penn State is the only college or university in Pennsylvania where [illegible] tuition is charged.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

Mrs. Merzel, a former resident of Curwensville, now of Clearfield, was a guest of Mrs. John Blake, West State street, Saturday.

Rev. John Cameron, pastor of the Baptist church, wishes that the Curwensville letter man announce that Dr. Byron King, of Pittsburg, has been engaged to deliver one of his famous lectures in the church on the evening of Tuesday, February 7th, subject to be announced later. Prior to the opening of the [illegible] Dr King will give a thirty-minute Bible reading. This entertainment is being held under the auspices of the Men's Bible class.

Just imagine for a moment 425 tons of wagon coal being shipped away from Curwensville in one day. That is what happened last Friday. Is it any wonder then that there is a scarcity of coal for common domestic purposes in this town, and that a small jag costs one almost as much as an 18-carat diamond ring? The writer was informed Saturday evening that the condition of coal affairs would be reported to those in high authority at once to ascertain if there was not some way out of the dilemma by which the home consumers could be supplied before the fuel was loaded on cars for shipment to foreign territory.

Miss Mary Dixon, a maiden lady residing in Penn township near Grampian, whose age was 73 years, 6 months and 5 days, died at the home of her brother, Michael Dixon last Thursday morning from cancer of the stomach. She was a daughter of Thoms and Ellen (Giles) Dixon, and was born and raised in the vicinity of what is known as the "Irish settlement." Her brother, with whom she made her home for many years, is the only surviving relative. The funeral services were held this morning, burial of the body being made in the Catholic cemetery at Grampian. Funeral Director C. E. Doverspike of this place had charge of interment.

Members of the Marine Band desire us to state this early in the week that a concert will be given by that organization next Sabbath afternoon in the Strand theatre. No admittance will be charged, but all who desire are at liberty to contribute a silver mite to the support of the band.

The dance held in the American Legion rooms last Friday evening was an exceptionally pleasant affair, a jolly crowd of the elite of Curwensville and other towns being in attendance. These entertainments in the Legion rooms are becoming famous among the young people who know that they can go there and enjoy an hour or two each week without being disturbed by rowdyism.

Lewis Dan, eight-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Dan, passed away at the home in Kellytown, this county, last Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Inflammation of the bowels was immediate cause of the lad's demise. The funeral was held on Saturday, Funeral Director Doverspike having charge of the body. Interment in the cemetery at Turkey Hill.

Paul Robison gave several of his friends a rare treat last Friday. He has a radio equipment installed at his home on North Filbert street. The program that came to him through the air was a ceremonial exercise being held in Savannah, Ga., in commemoration of the services of the Confederate leader, Gen. Robert E. Lee, and others who held high commands in the Confederate army during the Civil war. The Southerners observe January 20th as Memorial Day instead of May 30th as we do here in the North. The singing and addresses could be heard in the Robison home just as clearly as though one stood within one hundred feet of the performers.

Prof. Grant Norris, principal of the Curwensville borough public schools, hiked over to Altoona last Friday, where his presence was demanded by a convention of the Ancient Order of Yellow Dogs, which had convened around the bone of contention for the purpose of electing and installing officers and hearing reports from other Kennels. From the Altoona Mirror we crib the following item: "Following the election, Past Exalted Chief Grant Norris, from a ritual deciphered by R. Bruce Dunlap, from hieroglyphics unearthed in ancient Egypt and inscribed in the year 8898 B. C., installed the newly elected officers after each had answered satisfactorily the questions subscribed to by the early rulers of the kingdom of Yellow Dogs."

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kelby, of Clearfield, spent Sunday in the home of Mrs. William and Miss Lottie Bixler, North Pine street.

William Norris, by trade a barber and hair dresser, went over to Altoona on Sunday for a visit with his brother Franklin Norris, who recently located in that city.

The order of Red Men has certainly a progressive set of fellows within its borders. The latter part of last week a new invoice of expensive furniture arrived and was installed in the social rooms of that fraternal organization. The Red Men are now the exclusive owners of the entire third floor of the Fullerton block, better known as the Jacob Bilger brick building.

The American Legion will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting tomorrow evening and all members are urged to be present, as some important business propositions will come before the meeting.

Roy Daugherty has for sale—Lot of household goods, furniture, etc., at residence of Mrs. Jennie McNaul, 505 Scofield street, South Side. Also one Franklin coupe in good condition. Also thoroughbred Airedale terrier, hitch, 9 mo. old. Prices right for quick buyer. 1'20 2t'ch

Hard To Dress The Fat Women

By HEDDA HOYT
Fashion Editor for the United Press.

New York, N. Y., Jan. 22.—"All the world may love a fat man," but the designers and fashion artists certainly have no love for the fat woman.

Their gowns are all created for the slender, gazelle type of woman, in spite of the fact that over half the women of the world have rounded lines. The best ready-made gowns seldom come in sizes larger than 38 and most of them run about a 16 miss size.

The stout woman cannot find gowns among the ready-mades to fit her and unless she goes to an exceptionally good dressmaker she is sure to look wrong in her clothes.

There are very few expert dressmakers today. The ready-made garments have improved so greatly in recent years that they have put the dressmakers out of business.

This is the problem the stout woman has to face. She can't get her clothes ready made and can't get dressmakers who are capable of copying the ready-made gowns.

Most of the necklines on ready-made dresses have the rounded, bateau-shaped neckline which is absolutely fatal to the woman with a short neck and over plump shoulders. The stout woman must either wear a square or V-shaped neckline and yet any gown which she may find with the proper neckline will probably be so plain and uninteresting that she will not want it.

The long baggy waistlines of today do not suit her. Long waistlines are very good on her, but there must be no bagging about the waist.

To Hide the Curves.

Long semi-fitted waistlines with plain semi-fitting skirts draped in such a way as to hide curves are needed to give her the correct line. Her styles must not be too extreme or attention will be called to her size. They must not be too plain, or she will appear dowdy.

Unless her arm is in proportion to her body, she should not attempt short sleeves. Sleeves that reach below the elbow are better for her.

The stout woman is also limited as to colors. Black is perhaps the most suitable color for the extremely large woman, although she may vary it with certain dark shades of blue, green or brown. Taffetas and stiff materials always put the large woman at a disadvantage. Crepes and clingy materials are far better for her, combined with trimmings of soft materials such as georgettes, laces etc., which can be used as panels and overdrapes to cover too-harsh lines.

Materials with large patterns or figures only tend to accentuate one's size, although many clerks will declare that only a large person can wear them.

To my mind a large woman who is carefully groomed and gowned in a style that is not too exaggerated with her hair, face and eyes shining with the radiance of perfect health is quite as attractive as the anemic-looking animated clothesrack for whom all fashions are created.

Fountain Pens Not New.

Fountain pens were used as far back as 1660, and reference to them is found in an advertisement in 1788. A patent was granted in 1809, to Joseph Bramah, the inventor of the Bramah lock and hydraulic press.

Upholstery may be dry cleaned by brushing with a benzine soap solution and then sponging in clear benzine. This is better than using ammonia water, as some housekeepers do, for in time the [illegible]

Clever New Cape Frocks

The new cape frocks are very apt to look like a bloused coat in the back and like some medieval garment in the front. It is long, fitted, slim, and with a shoulder cape caught about the wrist into a semblance of a sleeve. The sleeves are fastened at the waist and fall from there to the hem of the dress in loose panels. They may be lined with bright colors to contrast with the shade of the frock.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists call it 'Joint Ease' because it's for Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaky Joints Only

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agent, declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds' rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

First class druggists everywhere dispense it daily for about 60 cents a tube.

Essen, Jan. 22.—German mines throughout the Ruhr today carried out their strike threat.

Mines that are supplying the greater part of German fuel were idle. Grimy men lounged about the pit with folded arms. They appeared at the shaft head at the usual hour this morning but no work was done. French troops with bayoneted rifles were at some of the mines. No work was done at any of the mines, however, the men unanimously joining in the passive resistance which caused the arrest and imprisonment of German mine officials. The Ruhr railroad men are also striking.

A meeting was called here to decide whether the tie-up of the mines throughout the Ruhr should be continued.

Paris, Jan. 22.—Marshall Foch and the French Cabinet today decided upon new measures "of a military and economic character' to meet the strike of German miners and railroad workers.

At the same time the French Commander at Essen released Herr Ahrens, State Mine Director, whose return was hailed tumultously by striking miners.

Troops were withdrawn from the vicinity of the State Mines and from the Reichsbank at Essen and the French pledged themselves to maintain only a small watch at railroad stations, this condition causing German railroad workers at South Dortmund to return to work.

This preliminary concession was not considered indicative of the French attitude in general, it is understood severe measures are planned

FRISCO FEELS EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS OF VARYING INTENSITY AT 1 A. M. TODAY

San Francisco, Jan. 22.—An earthquake shock, varying in intensity in different localities, shook the earth shortly after 1:00 a. m., according to reports.

It was felt lightly in San Francisco at 1:07 a. m. It seemed to consist of three shocks.

Washington, Jan. 22.—A very severe earthquake shock was recorded by the seismograph of Georgetown University here early today.

Professor Tonors, in charge of the instrument, said the shock, which was of unusually long duration, appeared to be 2,600 miles from Washington.

The tremors were first noticed at 3:55 o'clock this morning and continued until 5:26. The most severe part of the disturbance was recorded at 4:10.

MAN, WOMAN AND THREE CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH IN HOTEL FIRE AT HOMESTEAD, PA.; PROPRIETOR DIES

Homestead, Pa., Jan. 22.—Five persons burned to death today in an early morning fire which detroyed a small hotel owned by Thomas W. Davies on Dickson street.

The dead are Mrs. John Winnie, aged forty-five and her three children, David and Winifred, twins, aged six, and Catherine, aged thirteen.

The fire started in the kitchen of the three story frame hotel building and rapidly spread its way to the twenty bedrooms. Ten persons were forced to flee in their night clothing.

The bodies of Mrs. Winnie and her children were found huddled together on the thrid floor apartment, their escape having been cut off by the dense smoke and flames coming from the ground floor. John Winnie the husband tried in vain to rescue his wife and children but was forced back each time by tongues of flames darting from the doors and windows.

The Chief of the Homestead Fire Department Jos. Bryce, was severely burned on the head and hands in rescuing Davies. Davies died later in the Homestead Hospital.

COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL HOLD OPEN FORUM

The regular meeting of the Commercial Club will be on slightly different lines this evening. Recognizing that this city has a traffic problem that it must solve in the very near future the members have been giving a great deal of study to this topic. This evening it is planned that L. A. McDowell will give a talk on the subject after which the topic will be thrown open to discussion and be thoroughly threshed out.

Of course, there will be some good entertainment too.

YEAR 1923 STARTS OFF WITH FIGURES ON PRODUCTION BIG

Harrisburg, Pa. Jan. 22 (U. P.) Increased production in every line of industry in Pennsylvania since the beginning of the year was announced by the Department of Labor and Industry here today in a report based on a survey from the State Employment offices.

The following conditions were reported in certain important industries:

Steel industry in some quarters has attained nearly 90% production.

Railroads operating at capacity. The situation in the anthracite district improved by arrival of sufficient cars to handle coal mined.

Building boom surpasses record for 1922 throughout the State.

Agricultural situation marked by early requests for farm hands.

Coal mines throughout State working at capacity, with exception of Johnstown district, where car shortage has developed.

LEGISLATURE CONVENES AT NINE O'CLOCK THIS EVENING; PINCHOT TO GIVE IT HIS MESSAGE TOMORROW OR WEDNESDAY

Harrisburg, Jan. 22.—The Legislature was ready today to settle down to the real business of the 1923 session.

With the organization and committee arrangements meeting out of the way the General Assembly convenes at nine o'clock.

Tomorrow or Wednesday, Governor Pinchot is scheduled to come before the Legislature with a message in person and to present the budget, the first ever submitted to a Pennsylvania Legislature.

It was understood the new budget will provide for the expenditure of $90,000,000, or $28,000,000 less than the appropriation of 1921.

FORD CAR IS DRIVEN HEAD-ON INTO TEAM SATURDAY EVENING

A Ford driven by a man named Gill of Glen Richey, collided with a team being driven by Burton Graham, of "The Ridges," on South Second street in front of the residence of L. C. Norris Saturday evening about 7:30 o'clock.

Graham had been shopping about town and being delayed at the blacksmith shop was traveling home without a light on his sled. Gill was driving into town and when he approached the place where the accident occurred the lights of a car coming toward him caused him to swing over and being unable to see the team by reason of the rain on his windshield ran right into the lead horse, knocking the animal back onto the sled, cutting the horse's leg badly and otherwise bruising and skinning it up.

The injured horse was taken in charge by Dr. Winter and fixed up so that Mr. Graham was able to drive it home Sunday.

Dean Watts Presided At Conservation Meet In Harrisburg Today

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 22 (U. P.)—The Pennsylvania Conservation Council met here today to discuss a general conservation program to be recommended to the Legislature.

Governor Pinchot was scheduled to address the meeting. Dean R. L. Watts, of Pennsylvania State College presided. The Council took up conservation questions concerning forestry, game, fish, wild flowers and other wild life.

T. Lansing Snyder, Well Known Citizen, Died Yesterday Noon

Thomas Lansing Snyder, a resident of Clearfield for the past twenty years, died at his home corner Market and Front streets, about 12 o'clock Sunday, Jan. 21, 1923, after an illness of more than one year's duration, as the result of a stroke of paralysis, aged 62 years.

The deceased was the son of the late Thomas L. and Martha Snyder and was born and raised at Kylertown. At the death of his father he took over the management of the estate and proved to be highly successful business man.

About twenty years ago he moved his family to Clearfield where he has since resided. He possessed a wide acquaintance throughout the country and enjoyed the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

He is survived by his widow and one son, T. Lansing, Jr. Two sisters Mrs L. M Garrett and Mrs E. Brenner both of Philadelphia, also survive him.

The funeral will be held from his late home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in Hillcrest cemetery.

Naval Appropriation Bill Is Signed By President Harding

Washington, Jan. 22.—The naval appropriation bill, carrying the Congressional suggestion that another international conference should be called to limit submarines, aircraft and auxiliary ships was signed by President Harding in his room at the White House. The measure carries appropriations of about $295,000,000.

ITALIAN MOTHERS WANT TO COOK "AMERICAN WAY"

The home economics extension work of the Pennsylvania State College is carried to every corner of the state by a corps of trained workers. One of the workers, Miss Helen K. The class there is considered to be a great success and every session is well attended.

SUNDAY FIRE REVEALED A SITUATION WHICH IS A DISGRACE TO THE CITY

Barn On Rear of Market Street Lot Is Hiding Place of Both Men and Women Inebriates.

TWO ARE RESCUED

The fire alarm was sounded about 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon for a fire in District No. 13 and when the firemen arrived at the corner of Fourth and Market streets, the central point in the district, they found dense smoke issuing from the barn on the rear of the lot at that corner.

The fire was located in a couple of horse blankets which had been placed on the floor for bedding. The application of chemicals from a hand tank by the firemen soon put an end to the fire.

The barn is located on the alley known to its habitues or the lower strata of the social crust as "Little Broadway," is quite a busy place on Saturday nights generally and as the barn and wagon shed attached are easy of access they are said to be the hanging out place of numerous drinking parties. The usual quota was about last Saturday night, the weather making such quarters necessary.

Accordingly there was a real seat torment when the firemen arrived several rummies darting out and making their way unsteadily from that direction. While putting the chemical on the fire, a Lawrence township woman in an advanced stage of intoxication was discovered in the barn and she was led out to a place of safety and falling into the hands of Chief of Police McMullen was placed in the lockup to sleep off her jag.

After the excitement of the fire had been pretty well dissipated a "Paul Pry" nosed about and looking into a delivery wagon in the wagon shed saw a man who had been overcome with the heat from the moonshine he had been punishing and the poor devil was hauled out and by that time the police had returned to the scene and this drunk was also placed in the calaboose. Each lodger paid $7.00 into the borough treasury for their accommodations.

CHERRY TREE'S NEW BANK OPENS UNDER FINE AUSPICES

The Farmers and Merchants Bank of Cherry Tree opened Monday, Jan. 15th, 192 3, under the most favorable circumstances. The total resources for the first day were $216,737.04. Favors were given to all the visitors.

The first deposit was made by Helen Isabel Hanna, little daughter of the cashier.

A great deal of interest has been manifested in the enterprise. Stock has been over subscribed by 200 share holders.

This speaks well for the confidence reposed in the promoters, who are thus bringing the farming community in closer touch with the bankers and both of these with the merchants of the town.

The directors are composed of the following well known citizens.

J. D Ake. R. A. Butler, R. M. McCormick, Price Davis, C. A. Conner, E. C. Ake, R. H. Dunlap, J. C. Mahaffey, F. B. Camp, Dr. H. F. Garman.

With such a representative board the success of the bank is assured.

Mr. H. C. Hanna, who assumes the office of Cashier, comes highly recommended from the banking circles of McKeesport and vicinity. He possesses a pleasing personality and with his thorough knowledge of banking will prove a valuable asset to the bank. Mr. Hanna leaves McKeesport with the best wishes of his many friends for his future success.

The officer are:

J. D. Ake. President; R. A. Butler, First Vice President; R. M. McCormick, Second Vice Pres.; H. C. Hanna Cashier; F. L. Zeigler, Asst. Cashier and P. W. Cramer, Teller.

Pick Up Intoxicated, Half Clad Woman With Baby On The Woodland Road

A half clad Slavish woman with a little year-old baby in the same condition as to clothing was picked up on the Woodland road, near the Mt. Union row this side of Barrett Saturday night last and brought to the Clearfield hospital.

The woman is said to have been under the influence of liquor, in fact was so full she fell headlong when she got out of the car at the hospital and had to be helped into the building.

The woman alleged she had been driven from her home and arrangements were made to take care of her at the County Home till her domestic troubles could be settled.

WOMAN DISTILLER OF GLEN RICHEY BROUGHT TO JAIL

The latest Clearfield county moonshiner to have her house of pints and quarts fall about her head is Mrs. Adam Madachik, of Glen Richey. It is alleged by neighbors that Mrs. Madachik has long been polluting that community with rye juice from her still. So notorious did it become that complaint was made to the county authorities and Saturday last Sheriff Tom Lowell went to the Madachik home, placed the woman under arrest, confiscated her still, then a "going concern," together with a gallon of moonshine for evidence and brought the entire "ball of wax" to the county jail.

DRASTIC CHANGES IN CRIMINAL CODE OF STATE URGED

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 20. (U. P.) —Drastic changes in the criminal code of Pennsylvania, recommended by a commission appointed to revise the code, will be introduced in the legislature this week. The proposed code will be introduced in the Senate by Senator Fletcher W. Sturdevant and in the House by Representative Benjamin Ludlow.

Important recommendations by the committee are:—

1. The abolition of solitary confinement.

2. Requiring appeal from convictions within 30 days instead of six months as is now allowed.

3. Simplication of verbiage in bills and misdemeanors and classification of several forms of larceny under the one head of stealing.

The new code also provides for use of plain simple English, readily understandable in bills of indictments. This will reduce the length of the majority of manuscripts to a few liens, instead of many pages of technicalities.

Another provision is for a rearrangement of the statutes providing punishment for larceny and related crimes, making all these offenses felonies and increases the maximum punishment from three to five years.

HEAVEN HOLDS NO CHARM IF WIFIE'S GOING THERE

North Abington, Mass., Jan. 19.—My! How Frank H. McKee, of this town, must love his wife.

"I would rather go to hell alone than to go to heaven with the woman now suing me for divorce," he declared in answer to his wife's charges that he once turned on the gas so that he might go hand in hand to heaven. Mrs. McKeen is suing her husband for a divorce.

Legion Supports France and Puts Stamp of Approval On the Mer Rouge Investigation

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22.—The action of France in occupying certain territory in the Ruhr valley was given a stamp of approval by the national executive committee of the American Legion at its recent meeting in Indianapolis attended by representatives from every state.

The committee also adopted resolutions approving the action of the authorities of the state of Louisiana in their endeavors to enforce law and order and condemned the murder of an ex-service man by a "lawless band." Another resolution was adopted urging the government of the United States to lend its aid to abate the world crisis and assist in the establishment of peace.

French occupation of the Ruhr was deemed necessary by the Legion heads. The resolution charged that the Germans had attempted to wreck the financial system of their country for the purpose of avoiding payment and "by evasion and trickery sought to deprive France of the awards made by the peace conference." The committee voted to send copies of the resolution to President Harding, the Congress and the French ambassador to the United States.

The resolution on the Mer Rouge investigation was short but to the point. It follows: "Be it resolved, That this committee approve of the action of the authorities of the state of Louisiana in their endeavors to enforce law and order and condemn the foul murder of one of our comrades by a lawless band, and that we await with scrutiny the bringing to the bar of justice the perpetrator of this crime."

When the question of the Legion's attitude toward organized labor was considered, Alvin Owsley, national commander, declared the Legion owed no allegiance to either labor or capital. He said that the ex-service man had the right to decide for himself whether or not he desired to affiliate with organized labor and should be moved solely by the dictates of his own conscience.

Commander Owsley was authorized to raise an endowment fund of $100,000 from Legion posts to defray expenses incidental to the decoration of 32,000 graves of American soldiers and sailors in European countries. Committees were also authorized to consider the establishment of an orphan's home for children of ex-service men and the examination of all textbooks in the schools of the country to discover any alleged un-American contents.

WON CONTEST FIRST YEAR HE SPRAYED POTATOES

Two years ago R. E. Briggs, a Luzerne county farmer, did not believe in the principles of spraying potatoes and the use of disease-free seed as advocated by the agricultural extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. Then his neighbors began to spray their spuds and Mr. Briggs watched the results with great interest. He was won over to the idea when his neighbors dug their potatoes showing almost a double yield. o last spring he bought the best kind of seed available, sprayed through the season and had such good results that he entered the county farm products show and won the acre potato yield contest. He had raised 417.6 bushels of potatoes per acre and had no difficulty in winning the contest with this mark.

1,950 COAL MINERS KILLED IN MINES DURING YEAR 1922

Washington, Jan. 22.—Fatal accidents in coal mines, in the face of a five months shut down, due to the miners strike in the summer and the added precautions taken to prevent accidents, mounted to a total of 1,950 in 1922, only twenty-three less than the previous year, the bureau of mines announced today.

The actual number of accidents for 1922 was only slightly smaller, but when compared in relation to the number of millions of tons of coal produced, the total reaches a greater percentage. "Major" accidents, where five or more miners are killed, increased from 5 to 13, and the death total in these from 34 to 261, the figures showed.

George S. Rice, chief mining engineer of the bureau of mines, said that "suggestions as to the proper precautions made by the bureau and followed by the mine owners, seem not to abate the number of accidents," due to carelessness on the part of miners.

"Due to the natural inclinations of the miners, who are paid on a piece basis, to make as much as possible and waste as little time as possible in placing props under overhead obstructions, or in taking them out altogether, very little improvement has been shown in the records for the past several years in the number of accidents from this cause. The past year showed 786 deaths from falling rocks and coal."

Powder, electricity and haulage accidents showed a "gratifying reduction" in the past year, Rice stated. Only 1,091 deaths per million tons mined were caused from these three classes of accidents during the year.

Preferred, Earache.

Mrs. B. writes that her little boy remarked that he'd much rather have the earache than the toothache, because he didn't have to have his ear pulled out.

SHORT FARM COURSE STARTS AT PENN STATE

The eight week's course in agriculture at the Pennsylvania State College started last week with an enrollment of more than 120 men and boys and four women. Fifty have entered the course in dairy production, the most popular of the short courses. Animal production, general farming and horticultural courses are also very popular with the short course students. This year's enrollment is on a par with that of previous years, for the number that can be admitted is limited by the college due to lack of living and teaching facilities.

Foolish Question 75689.

A negro cut off one of his toes while chopping wood. He went to a doctor's to have the wound dressed and as the doctor looked at it, he said, "Sam, did you cut it off clean that way at one blow?" "Well, now, doctah," replied Sam, "do you think I'd take a second lick at it?"

WILL HELP RUN GOVERNMENT

Brig. Gen. John R. McQuigg, Ohio, Organizer, Predicts Reform Through Ex-Service Men.

"There is an avalanche coming down on government before long when the service men get properly organized. The government will be run as it has not been run in the past, and is being run now."

Brig. Gen. J. R. McQuigg.

The above statement was made by Brig. Gen. John R. McQuigg, veteran organizer, campaigner and silver-tongued orator of the American Legion in accepting his recent unanimous election as chairman of the Cuyahoga County (O.) Council of the Legion which includes all Cleveland Legionnaires.

Entrance of ex-service men into the active affairs of government will purify American politics and will inject a new note of Americanism into this country's affairs, according to General McQuigg, although the Legion, as an organization, will never participate in partisan politics.

General McQuigg is serving his third term as Legion national executive committeeman from Ohio, and is a past commander of the Ohio department. At the recent national convention in New Orleans he was chosen a three-year member of the national finance committee. He was chairman of the very important resolutions committee at the convention, and presented the resolution on adjusted compensation to the convention. He played an active role in the compensation fight in congress.

A brigadier general of the Ohio National Guard, Mr. McQuigg is president of the Windemere Savings and Loan company of Cleveland, and is a former mayor of East Cleveland. He has always been active in civic and political affairs and has been a practicing attorney since 1890.

General McQuigg is a veteran of both the Spanish and World wars. In the recent war he commanded the One Hundred and Twelfth engineers in the Thirty-seventh division at Camp Sheridan overseas.

How To Keep Your Baby Well

A Weekly Talk To Mothers Issued Through The Babies' Prophylactic Clinic, Henry Phipps Institution, 7th and Lombard Streets.

YOUR CHILD'S WILL

Every child iss more or less wilful. In other words, "he wants what he wants when he wants it." Sometime what he wants is not good for him. Then do not give into him. This may often requires strong will-power on your part, but the earlier in your child's life that you begin to exert your will power over his, the easier will it be for you to control him.

Let him recognize that your will is founded not on obstinate opposition to his wishes, but on what is best for him. He will soon come to rely on your judgment.

Do not bring up your child on a series of "Thou Shalt not's." Preventing him from doing things, will not develop his will power. It is correctly and intelligently guiding him in the things he DOES that counts.

If Johnie wants to eat candies and cakes between meals, and you know they will spoil his appetite for more nutritious foods, use your willpower. Do not let him eat them; force him to obey your will. But if Mary wants to go outdoors, and you do not want her to go simply because you prefer to stay in the house, you are letting your will be governed by your own desire rather than by Mary's needs.

As your child gets older, his will should be developed. Otherwise he will grow up into the kind of a person that can never learn to think and act for himself.

This does not mean, though, that his will should dominate yours. If you say something and you know you are right, stick to it. Be firm. Your child will respect you more if he knows that when you say a thing you mean it.

Do not, however, confuse stubbornness and contrariness and will. Because your child is stubborn, it does not necessarily mean that he has great will power. As a matter of fact stubborness is often a sign of weakness, while will power is a sign of strenght.

Children, as you know, are like little monkeys—they imitate. Only too often a fit of tantrums, which is really not will, is but an imitation of your own tantrums which you allow your child to see. He can just as easily learn to imitate kindliness and an even disposition. Therefore, learn first to control yourself. Your child will readily follow your example.

Patrick Henry's Education.

Patrick Henry failed in various enterprises before he made an attempt at law. He read for only six weeks before he applied for his license. The license was granted him on condition that he study further before practicing. He first became famous thru his brilliant speech in the Parsons case.

Large Mouth Stood Good Sign.

"She was simple enough to be somewhat apologetic about the largeness of her mouth, unaware that a man of experience flees from a small, rosebud mouth as from the devil, and that a large mouth is the certain sign of good will and understanding in a woman." "She went to the Wallace collection and saw how millionaires lived in the 70s and how the unchaste and lovely ladies were dressed for whom entire populations were sacrificed in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries. Thence to a cinema near the Marble arch, and saw how virtue infallibly wins after all."—From "Lillian," by Arnold Bennett.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Many Americans unable, financially, to take the Cuban and South American cruises so extensively advertised these days, are hiking across the border into Canada. Here is the Yankee slogan when they get across the line:—

Sing a song of Montreal,
A barrel full of rye;
Four and twenty Yankees
Feeling mighty dry;
When the barrel was opened
They all began to sing:
"Oh, to hell with Mr. Volstead
And God save the King!"

Who was the first man to be buried under the shadow of the Cross in America? He was not a Spaniard, nor was he of Anglo-Saxon stock. His name was Thorwald, one of the sons of Eric the Red of Greenland, whose friend, Biarne Bardson, when driven out of his course on a voyage from Iceland, discovered North America. This was in the late summer of the year 986.

Thorwald, fired by his friend's discovery, and the voyage in 1000 to Vinland by his brother, Leif, reached America in the autumn of 1002, and passed the winter at Leifsbudir or Leif's-booths, which was situated at Mount Hope's Bay. He and his Norsemen remained in Vinland, that has been identified with Massachusetts and Rhode Island, till the summer of 1004. Then Thorwald, leaving a party at Leifsbudir, set sail in his long-ship with her square, woolen sail and oarsmen. They passed Kialarnes, or Keelcape, which is Cape Cod, and kept on until they came to a headland overgrown with wood.

Thorwald was so pleased with this spot that he told his comrades he would like well to have his settlement here. As the men were returning to their vessel they noticed three hillocks on the sandy beach, which they found to be three canoes, and under each, three natives. A fight ensued. Eight of the natives were killed; the ninth escaped with his canoe. Shortly afterwards a large band of aborigines rushed upon the Norsemen from the interior. Thorwald and his men retreated to their ship, but not till he had received a wound under the arm from an arrow.

Finding the wound to be mortal he said to his men: "Get you about your departure as soon as possible, but me ye shall bring to the headland where I thought it good to dwell. Mayhap, it was a prophetic word that fell from my mouth about my abiding there for a season. There shall ye bury me, and there place a cross at my head and also at my feet, and call the place Krossanes (Crossness) in all time coming."

This his men did, placing a cross at his head and his feet, for already the Christian teachers among the Norse had wrought good work; and in many parts the worship of Thor and Odin was cast down. Thorwald and his men were, indeed, worshippers of the "White Christ." After burying Thorwald, the Norsemen rejoined their companions at Leifsbudir, and sailed in the spring of 1005 for Greenland. But, at Krossanes, which has been identified as Gurnet Point, lay the first Christian grave which had been made in all America.

Late in the Eighteenth Century, a Norse cemetery was found on Rainford Island in the Bay of Boston. Here, it has been discovered, were buried at later dates the dead of the many Norse expeditions from Greenland to North America. Between 986 and 1347, the last date given in history to a voyage from Greenland to America, there were frequent visits by these Vikings to Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

Circulating libraries were instituted in the Middle Ages—still sometimes called the Dark Ages by those who are in the dark about them. They date from the fourteenth century, when the University of Paris, as a help to the students attending it, had a law enacted which compelled all booksellers to keep books to lend out on hire; and this example was imitated at Toulouse, Bologna, Vienna, and Oxford. Complete catalogues of books were exposed for the public, with the prices of hiring affixed, and the students had a right to make copies of them.

Radium.

The light of radium burns without replenishment for two thousand years, and during that period less than 50 per cent will have decayed. Since it is shooting off small particles, what becomes of radium after its fire has died out? This magic stone of the scientists changes from the most costly metal into the basest—it becomes lead!

Where United States Leads.

The United States produces annually about 70 per cent of the world's corn, 60 per cent of its cotton and 50 per cent of its tobacco.

Wonderful Eating Capacity.

Two Italians once had a macaroni-eating contest, in which the winner stowed away 2,160 yards of the dish, being a quarter of a mile ahead of his rival, who had to confess with reluctance that he could eat no more.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

Within two squares of the temple of justice, the borough building, the centre of the city and under the very shadow of church steeples from whence came the peal of bells calling the faithful to worship, a funnel of smoke issuing from an old barn yesterday revealed a condition that would do credit to the back alleys of a great city.

It has long been public knowledge that the alley between Market and Locust Streets and leading from Third to Fourth Streets was the trysting place of the bootlegger and the open air drinking place of the moonshine addict, but it was hardly believeable that a sudden breaking out of fire in the vicinity would send the convivial spirits scampering to cover.

It was even worse than that. A woman was in there, dead drunk at the hour of noon on Sunday. There was also a man who had crawled into the bed of a delivery wagon to sleep off his jag. Neither knew the other was there, but among the secrets of the Order of Neck Lubricators imparted to initiates was one which not only told the poor fish where to get liquor, but where he could drink it in safety

Last night an old frame hotel building at Homestead, Pa., burned to the ground, killing five people, all of whom had their senses and their physical power, yet they were burned to death

We might have had a greater and more disgraceful catastrophe to write about today had the occupants of the old barn not been discovered and rescued before the flames reached them.

The Sunday papers carried the following news dispatch under a Millersburg, Ohio, date line —

"The grand jury, after its annual investigation of the Holmes county jail, reported as follows: "'Holmes county's jail is easily more sanitary than the majority of hotels and should be satisfactory to the most exacting'

"Sheriff J. A. Stevens, flushed with pride, addressed the jury as follows:

"'Thanks, gentlemen I hereby offer a standing reward of $5 for every bug of any description found in the jail.'"

What a cinch, my countrymen were the Clearfield County Commissioners, who have charge of our jail, to make such a crack here in Clearfield. Think of it friends, $5 per bed bug. Croesus, with all his fabled riches, would go broke the first hour of the first day he worked at the paying end of that game, while a $65,000 Clearfield county temporary loan wouldn't last longer than it took the ink to dry on the signatures of the County Commissioners negotiating it.

In this connection it might be well to add that while discussing the recent upheaval down at the jail due to the activities of the "clean up squad," Captain Watson of the Salvation Army, who visited the jail Saturday, said there has been quite a bit of housecleaning indulged in the past couple of days but the surface had only been scratched thus far Captain Watson said —

"I was down at the jail today, as is my weekly custom and in talking with one of the prisoners the matter of the clean up came up Inviting me into his cell the fellow said 'Here, Cap, look here' With that the prisoner took a big chunk of newspaper and inserting it between the wash boards of the wall of the cell [illegible] and with a match touched the paper and flames leaped high up the wall [illegible] directions up to the ceiling Although could not exactly state how many hundred of the little pests —some of them no very little— one time'

Questioning the Captain stated that at the present time the grand exodus of Thursday and Friday has

'Well, I believe there is no improvement Here before when we went down to the jail to hold our services it was so bad we could not kneel down on the floor to pray and the prisoners would freely spread their blankets for us to kneel on to keep our clothes from being soiled [illegible]

STATE COLLEGE A STATE INSTITUTION SAYS PRESIDENT

The many friends of the Pennsylvania State College have been greatly concerned with some of the statements in the recent report of Dr Harlan Upergraff of the University of Pennsylvania, to the citizens' committee on the finances of Pennsylvania, to the citizen's committee on the finances of Pennsylvania appointed by Governor-elect Pinchot. The report declares State College to be not an entirely state institution and gives the impression that tuition is charged students there. In order to clear Penn State's position President John M. Thomas has issued the following statement:

"The Pennsylvania State College is already a purely state institution It is classed as a state institution by the United States Bureau of Education, and is the only institution in Pennsylvania so designated Two thirds of the trustees are state officers, appointees of the Governor, and persons elected by public societies The property of the college is owned by the commonwealth [illegible] as is evidenced by the fact that [illegible] now using [illegible] building As to [illegible] of the college [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

Mrs. Merzel, a former resident of Curwensville, now of Clearfield, was a guest of Mrs. John Blake, West State street, Saturday.

Rev. John Cameron, pastor of the Baptist church, wishes that the Curwensville letter man announce that Dr. Byron King, of Pittsburg, has been engaged to deliver one of his famous lectures in the church on the evening of Tuesday, February 7th, subject to be announced later. Prior to the opening of the [illegible] Dr King will give a thirty-minute Bible reading. This entertainment is being held under the auspices of the Men's Bible class.

Just imagine for a moment 425 tons of wagon coal being shipped away from Curwensville in one day. That is what happened last Friday. Is it any wonder then that there is a scarcity of coal for common domestic purposes in this town, and that a small jag costs one almost as much as an 18-carat diamond ring? The writer was informed Saturday evening that the condition of coal affairs would be reported to those in high authority at once to ascertain if there was not some way out of the dilemma by which the home consumers could be supplied before the fuel was loaded on cars for shipment to foreign territory.

Miss Mary Dixon, a maiden lady residing in Penn township near Grampian, whose age was 73 years, 6 months and 5 days, died at the home of her brother, Michael Dixon last Thursday morning from cancer of the stomach. She was a daughter of Thoms and Ellen (Giles) Dixon, and was born and raised in the vicinity of what is known as the "Irish settlement." Her brother, with whom she made her home for many years, is the only surviving relative. The funeral services were held this morning, burial of the body being made in the Catholic cemetery at Grampian. Funeral Director C. E. Doverspike of this place had charge of interment.

Members of the Marine Band desire us to state this early in the week that a concert will be given by that organization next Sabbath afternoon in the Strand theatre. No admittance will be charged, but all who desire are at liberty to contribute a silver mite to the support of the band.

The dance held in the American Legion rooms last Friday evening was an exceptionally pleasant affair, a jolly crowd of the elite of Curwensville and other towns being in attendance. These entertainments in the Legion rooms are becoming famous among the young people who know that they can go there and enjoy an hour or two each week without being disturbed by rowdyism.

Lewis Dan, eight-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Dan, passed away at the home in Kellytown, this county, last Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Inflammation of the bowels was immediate cause of the lad's demise. The funeral was held on Saturday, Funeral Director Doverspike having charge of the body. Interment in the cemetery at Turkey Hill.

Paul Robison gave several of his friends a rare treat last Friday. He has a radio equipment installed at his home on North Filbert street. The program that came to him through the air was a ceremonial exercise being held in Savannah, Ga., in commemoration of the services of the Confederate leader, Gen. Robert E. Lee, and others who held high commands in the Confederate army during the Civil war. The Southerners observe January 20th as Memorial Day instead of May 30th as we do here in the North. The singing and addresses could be heard in the Robison home just as clearly as though one stood within one hundred feet of the performers.

Prof. Grant Norris, principal of the Curwensville borough public schools, hiked over to Altoona last Friday, where his presence was demanded by a convention of the Ancient Order of Yellow Dogs, which had convened around the bone of contention for the purpose of electing and installing officers and hearing reports from other Kennels. From the Altoona Mirror we crib the following item: "Following the election, Past Exalted Chief Grand Norris, from a ritual deciphered by R. Bruce Dunlap, from hieroglyphics unearthed in ancient Egypt and inscribed in the year 8898 B. C., installed the newly elected officers after each had answered satisfactorily the questions subscribed to by the early rulers of the kingdom of Yellow Dogs."

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kelby, of Clearfield, spent Sunday in the home of Mrs. William and Miss Lottie Bixler, North Pine street.

William Norris, by trade a barber and hair dresser, went over to Altoona on Sunday for a visit with his brother Franklin Norris, who recently located in that city.

The order of Red Men has certainly a progressive set of fellows within its borders. The latter part of last week a new invoice of expensive furniture arrived and was installed in the social rooms of that fraternal organization. The Red Men are now the exclusive owners of the entire third floor of the Fullerton block, better known as the Jacob Bilger brick building.

The American Legion will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting tomorrow evening and all members are urged to be present, as some important business propositions will come before the meeting.

Roy Daugherty has for sale—Lot of household goods, furniture, etc., at residence of Mrs. Jennie McNaul, 505 Scofield street, South Side. Also one Franklin coupe in good condition. Also thoroughbred Airedale terrier, hitch, 9 mo. old. Prices right for quick buyer. 1'20 2t'ch

Hard To Dress The Fat Women

By HEDDA HOYT
Fashion Editor for the United Press.

New York, N. Y., Jan. 22.—"All the world may love a fat man," but the designers and fashion artists certainly have no love for the fat woman.

Their gowns are all created for the slender, gazelle type of woman, in spite of the fact that over half the women of the world have rounded lines. The best ready-made gowns seldom come in sizes larger than 38 and most of them run about a 16 miss size.

The stout woman cannot find gowns among the ready-mades to fit her and unless she goes to an exceptionally good dressmaker she is sure to look wrong in her clothes.

There are very few expert dressmakers today. The ready-made garments have improved so greatly in recent years that they have put the dressmakers out of business.

This is the problem the stout woman has to face. She can't get her clothes ready made and can't get dressmakers who are capable of copying the ready-made gowns.

Most of the necklines on ready-made dresses have the rounded, bateau-shaped neckline which is absolutely fatal to the woman with a short neck and over plump shoulders. The stout woman must either wear a square or V-shaped neckline and yet any gown which she may find with the proper neckline will probably be so plain and uninteresting that she will not want it.

The long baggy waistlines of today do not suit her. Long waistlines are very good on her, but there must be no bagging about the waist.

To Hide the Curves.

Long semi-fitted waistlines with plain semi-fitting skirts draped in such a way as to hide curves are needed to give her the correct line. Her styles must not be too extreme or attention will be called to her size. They must not be too plain, or she will appear dowdy.

Unless her arm is in proportion to her body, she should not attempt short sleeves. Sleeves that reach below the elbow are better for her.

The stout woman is also limited as to colors. Black is perhaps the most suitable color for the extremely large woman, although she may vary it with certain dark shades of blue, green or brown. Taffetas and stiff materials always put the large woman at a disadvantage. Crepes and clingy materials are far better for her, combined with trimmings of soft materials such as georgettes, laces etc., which can be used as panels and overdrapes to cover too-harsh lines.

Materials with large patterns or figures only tend to accentuate one's size, although many clerks will declare that only a large person can wear them.

To my mind a large woman who is carefully groomed and gowned in a style that is not too exaggerated with her hair, face and eyes shining with the radiance of perfect health is quite as attractive as the anemic-looking animated clothesrack for whom all fashions are created.

Fountain Pens Not New.

Fountain pens were used as far back as 1660, and reference to them is found in an advertisement in 1788. A patent was granted in 1809, to Joseph Bramah, the inventor of the Bramah lock and hydraulic press.

To Clean Upholstery.

Upholstery may be dry cleaned by brushing with a benzine soap solution and then sponging in clear benzine. This is better than using ammonia water, as housekeepers do, for in time the [illegible]

Clever New Cape Frocks

The new cape frocks are very apt to look like a bloused coat in the back and like some medieval garment in the front. It is long, fitted, slim, and with a shoulder cape caught about the wrist into a semblance of a sleeve. The sleeves are fastened at the waist and fall from there to the hem of the dress in loose panels. They may be lined with bright colors to contrast with the shade of the frock.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists call it 'Joint Ease' because it's for Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaky Joints Only

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agent, declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds' rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

First class druggists everywhere dispense it daily for about 60 cents a tube.

For Raw Sore Throat

At the first sign of a raw, sore throat rub on a little Musterole with your fingers.

It goes right to the spot with a gentle tingle, loosens congestion, draws out soreness and pain.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It has all the strength of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Nothing like Musterole for croupy children. Keep it handy for instant use. 35 and 65 cents in jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.
